High Street trees plan

NEWMARKET High Street could take on the feel of a continental boulevard as the town council plans to line it with trees.

Councillors will look at the feasibility of planting around 20 permanent trees at a cost of about £1,700 each.

And if the proposal proves feasible, the council could seek sponsorship to meet the costs of around £35,000.

Cllr Warwick Hirst unveiled his plans at the meeting of the community services committee on Monday – and they were warmly received.

The trees could be similar in scale and type to those planted in The Avenue.

He said: "When The Avenue was re-done, it was a very pleasant surprise. A lot of people asked if we could have trees on the High Street.

"The proposal would cost £1,700 to £1,750 per tree to dig down one metre or one-and-a-half metres and put in the metalwork.

Council would seek sponsors for each tree

"We would look for sponsorship for each tree."

Town mayor Cllr Mick Jeffreys said: "This would be a fantastic addition to the High Street."

He said the trees could be covered with Christmas lights during the festive season, similar to other towns.

Cllr Richard Fletcher and Cllr Keith Bovill, the deputy mayor, will lead the feasibility study. Issues include the presence of cables and pipes running under the street.

Cllr Fletcher said: "Every town on the continent has trees – it makes the town more people-friendly."

He favours using native trees on a similar scale to The Avenue.

He said: "The trees on The Avenue really do look good."

A spokeswoman for Save Historic Newmarket Action Group (SHNAG) welcomed the proposal.

She said: "We think this would be a good idea, depending on the feasibility study that the town council will undertake before any final decision is made."

The committee also welcomed proposals from the Newmarket Retailers' Association to plant 9ft high Christmas trees in planters on the High Street from mid-November onwards.

The cost would be about £20 for each tree, which will be split between the council and retailers.

The current position of the planters will be reviewed as some obstruct drivers' views as they enter the street.

Mature trees on The Avenue were felled in 2008 because their roots were making the pavement uneven.

Suffolk County Council said the roots were a trip hazard and all 24 trees were replaced, along with 10 extra ones, and the pavement was re-laid.

Husband facing assault charges

A NEWMARKET man has pleaded guilty to one charge of assault by beating but denied another.

George Wynne admitted the assault on his wife on July 12 when he appeared before magistrates in Bury St Edmunds on Monday.

But the 52-year-old pleaded not guilty of an assault on his daughter on the same day.

Wynne, of Warrington Street, was released on unconditional bail. His case will be reviewed at the same court on October 11.

Celebration day: joining Jack Green at the opening of Moulton Village Hall are members of the hall's management committee.

Jack, 96, does the honours at new village hall

THE oldest resident of Moulton was present to see the official opening of the new village hall.

Moulton's new facility was opened on Saturday and sprightly Jack Green, 96, joined members of the village hall management committee to cut a celebratory cake.

The hall cost almost £500,000 but the project was left £60,000 short when Forest Heath District Council contributed £100,000 instead of the expected £160,000.

The Big Lottery fund gave a £10,000 grant and villagers are expected to chip in with loans to make up the remaining shortfall of £48,000.

Fundraising started in 2000 and the committee hopes to see income flowing in now the hall is ready to be hired out.

Row over mother's visit led to assault

A YOUNG woman avoided jail for assaulting a friend in a public car park when magistrates decided against activating a suspended sentence.

Grace Jackson, 21, punched Cherie Strike in the side of the head after they had argued about a visit by Miss Strike's mother, magistrates heard.

During the incident, in Newmarket's Guineas Centre multi-storey car park, Jackson started walking off, pushing a buggy with Miss Strike's 7-month-old baby in it. But two men intervened and stopped her, prosecutor Shini Cooksley, told the court at Bury St Edmunds.

The court also heard that after the incident Jackson got into Miss Strike's home through an unlocked window "to apologise".

Jackson, of Exning Road, Newmarket, admitted assault.

The court heard she was the subject of a suspended sentence imposed last year for assault and resisting and obstructing a police officer.

But the magistrates ruled it would be "unjust" to activate the suspended sentence. Instead, they extended the period of suspension by six months and ordered her to carry out 40 hours of unpaid community work. She was also ordered to pay £50 compensation to Miss Strike.

Mrs Cooksley said Jackson had previously shared a house with Miss Strike but they had been "no more than friends".

On the afternoon of August 24 Jackson "flagged down" Miss Strike's car as she was driving in Exning Road, Newmarket, and asked for a lift.

During the journey Jackson became very angry as they argued about an impending visit by Miss Strike's mother.

She refused to get out of the car in the car park and Miss Strike began walking off with her child in the push chair.

Mrs Cooksley said Jackson

then ran at Miss Strike and punched her on the side of the head, although no injury was caused.

Fiona Borley, in mitigation, said Jackson had been diagnosed at 16 with what a psychiatrist had described as one of the worst cases of attention deficit hyperactivity disorder that she had seen.

Since the incident Jackson had been to her GP to try to get medication and had voluntarily contacted the mental health charity MIND to get on an anger management course.

Mrs Borley said probation officers were "absolutely delighted" with the progress Jackson had made to turn her life around.

Homemade: Sally Anne Lewis, right, with assistant Carol Phillips, and some pies.

Homemade pies to tempt at fair

A WIDE range of handmade pies will feature among produce ranging from ice cream to fresh fruit at a gourmet food fair in Newmarket.

The Rutland Arms Hotel hosts the fair from 10am to 4pm on Saturday and several producers from the area will be showcasing their wares.

Among them is Sally Anne Lewis who started her homemade pie business just over a year ago.

She said: "I felt there was a hole in the market for good homemade pies instead of mass-produced ones."

"I sell through butchers, farmers' markets and also do special ones made to order for pubs." She said the most popular are the traditional steak and ale and steak and mushroom pies, along with chicken and mushroom. The latest addition to the range is chicken balti.

She said: "I will also be making sweet pies for the fair using local apples and blackberries."

Warning on buyers looking for valuables

A WARNING has been issued about doorstep callers offering to buy gold, jewellery and antiques.

Trading standards officers in Suffolk have had a number of complaints about unsolicited callers using pushy techniques to buy valuable items at less than their true value.

A spokeswoman for the county's trading standards department said:

"We have had a number of complaints about aggressive practices being employed by these traders, including refusing to leave a customer's home when asked, and pushing their way into an elderly lady's home and looking through her belongings without her permission."

"Trading standards advise that anyone thinking of selling any items should shop around and make sure that they are getting the best price possible for their goods."

"Traders who buy at the door, rather than sell, are not required to provide cancellation rights. So once the price has been agreed and money has been paid there is no opportunity to change your mind and get your goods back."

"Consumers are urged not to feel pressured into selling anything they don't want to and are invited to contact trading standards with any information or leaflets that they might receive offering this service."

For more information call Suffolk trading standards (01473) 264859 or email tradingstandards@suffolk.gov.uk

Pigeon rescued

FIREFIGHTERS were called out to an unusual 999 call – to free a pigeon trapped in roof netting.

A fire engine from Newmarket was dispatched to the town's High Street after crews received an emergency call at about 12.30pm on Monday. The bird was freed, with RSPCA officers in attendance, by 12.50pm.

Ali the Lion roars home in the Guineas

CAMBRIDGE United almost picked up a second victory of the weekend – in the annual Mascot Guineas run in Newmarket.

Cuddly mascot Marvin the Moose was leading the race at the Town Ground in Newmarket on Sunday but fell on the final corner and could only make second place.

Organiser Howard Jones, the commercial manager at Newmarket Town FC, said: "If Marvin hadn't fallen he could probably have won it – the first two were very tight."

U's fans will be hoping this isn't an ominous omen for their season in the Blue Square Premier, which was boosted by a 5-0 home victory over Gateshead on Saturday.

Top spot in the Mascot Guineas was taken by Suffolk's Ali the Lion, from the Gipping Valley and Thurston School Sport Partnership.

Newmarket Town's Jockey Bear was third, with three more competitors trailing behind.

Bogus callers foiled by pensioner

BOGUS callers left empty-handed after tricking a couple in their 80s into letting them in.

The two men left the house, in Wingfield Road, Lakenheath, after the woman became suspicious.

The incident happened between 1.35pm and 2pm on Wednesday last week when a man called at the couple's home claiming he needed to check the water after a gas leak, and a second man also entered the house.

The first caller was described as a white man, tanned, in his late 20s or early 30s. He was 5ft 9in tall, of slim build with short dark hair and a moustache. He was wearing a dark checked shirt, black trousers and a black tank top.

The second man was also white and taller and of larger build than the first one. He was shabbily dressed in a grey jacket and woolly hat.

Anyone with information about the Lakenheath incident should call Det Con Cat Thompson at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Hatchfield plans could be revised

TOWN councillors will consider this month whether to meet Lord Derby to discuss possible changes to his controversial plans for 1,200 new homes.

The scheme has been opposed by Newmarket Town Council and the horse racing industry which fears proposals would harm the town's unique character and historic status as the home of racing.

Lord Derby has said the scheme to develop around 160 acres at Hatchfield Farm represents "the most suitable location for the new homes that would help Newmarket evolve."

The plans were rejected unanimously by district

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

councillors in June but Lord Derby has hinted at a smaller scheme which would be "substantially different" from the one originally proposed.

Cllr Richard Fletcher, chairman of the town council's development and planning committee, said it had received a letter from Lord Derby seeking a meeting to discuss the revised plans.

But after Monday's committee meeting, he said no new plans had yet been received and no meeting has been fixed.

Cllr Fletcher said: "Lord Derby has written to the committee and he would like to discuss a reduced-scale development and the mitigation of some of our concerns.

"We have not agreed to meet him and it will be further considered at a meeting of the town council at the end of the month.

"The town council's view on the scheme is fairly clear and we are wary of getting into any debate until we have seen the new proposals."

The site remains earmarked for development and Lord Derby has joined Forest Heath District Council to resist a legal challenge to the council's core strategy for development over the next 20 years.

The racing industry, including Jockey Club Estates, auctioneers Tattersalls, the Save Historic Newmarket Action Group (SHNAG) and Newmarket Trainers' Federation, launched the challenge in a bid to get the scheme taken out of the strategy.

SHNAG wants discussions between councillors and Lord Derby – if the town council agrees to them – to take place in public.

A spokeswoman said: "We would not be happy, and the people of Newmarket would not be happy, for anything to be done behind closed doors.

"This is something that is in the public domain and should remain in the public domain."

The town council meets at 7pm on Monday, September 27.

Church marks 750 years with flowers

CELEBRATIONS to mark the 750th anniversary of a village church feature a five-day flower festival. St Mary and the Holy Host of Heaven, Cheveley, will host the festival between Friday, September 17 and Tuesday, September 21, at 10.30am until 4.30pm daily. The theme of the display will be time. The arrangements will be in three main groups – A Lifetime in Flowers, representing life's journey, Time to Celebrate, covering the major festivals of the year and Time to Relax, representing leisure time.

Admission is free and refreshments will be available throughout. At 7.30pm on Saturday, September 18, there will be a concert by the Ely Angels celebrating 750 years of sacred and secular music. Tickets are available from Chris Marshall on (01638) 730170. For more information visit www.stmarys-church-cheveley.co.uk

BMW thieves stole keys from house

BURGLARS broke into a house and stole the keys to a silver BMW 320 and drove it away. Offenders got into the house in Macpherson Robertson Way, Mildenhall, between 8pm on Friday and 8.30am the following day. The car was later found burnt out in Wangford.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Detective Sergeant Helen Sowerby at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Shopper's bag stolen from trolley

A SHOPPING bag was stolen from a trolley in Newmarket's Waitrose supermarket.

The theft happened between 1.30pm and 2.10pm on Friday. A suspicious male had asked for assistance with a quiche. He is white, in his 30s with brown hair and wore a brown T-shirt with a cream stripe across the chest. Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Sgt Darren Lamboll on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Police appeal with CCTV image

POLICE have issued a CCTV image of a man they want to speak to following burglaries at two flats in Newmarket.

Doors were forced to break into the properties and a laptop, a hard drive, cash, tobacco, a rucksack and aftershave were stolen from Sun Lane between 5.55am and 11.15am on July 7.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Detective Constable to Mike Chapman at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Keep fit is Marjorie's recipe for a long life

FORMER keep-fit fan Marjorie Stoneham has celebrated her 105th birthday.

Marjorie, who attended keep fit classes until she was 98, said her long life was the result of exercise and a good sense of humour.

Until a year ago she was living independently in Sawston with the support of carers. But after suffering a minor stroke she moved into the Hilton Park Care Centre at Bottisham where she celebrated her birthday with family and friends last Wednesday.

Her memories include celebrations to mark the end of the First World War and her first sight of an aeroplane.

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

She spent her early life in Luton where her father had a hat factory and she designed hats.

She was a Scout leader and had a guard of honour of local Scouts when she was married shortly before the Second World War.

She obtained her driving licence as a young woman and was entitled to drive all classes of vehicles.

Marjorie and her late husband Dick lived in Cherry Hinton Road, Cambridge, for three years just before the war when he joined the Royal Navy and served as an officer on ships escorting North Atlantic convoys.

Picture: Keith Jones 674794

They later lived in Norwich before moving to Sawston in the 1980s.

Marjorie joined the keep-fit classes held at Shelford Memorial Hall and was filmed for regional television as the oldest member.

When she celebrated her 100th birthday she was invited to Luton University – part of which was the school she attended as a youngster – to help mark a centenary of the university – now the University of Bedfordshire.

She received a greetings card from the Queen to mark her 105th birthday which is being kept along with the one she received for her 100th.

She said: "There's not much I can say about my life, but I've lived it."

She has a daughter, Mary Irish, who lives in Sawston, and two grand-daughters Helen Meredith, who lives in Fulbourn, and Catherine Irish, who lives in Sawston.

She also has a great grandson Sam, Helen's son, who is nearly 2 years old.

Bench memorial scheme launched

A SCHEME to dedicate park benches in memory of people who have died has been launched by a town council.

Newmarket Town Council is inviting people to sponsor benches on the town's Severals green and the Memorial Hall Gardens.

The benches will cost £395 plus VAT and are made of composite plastic by Whitehouse Enterprises, the organisation supported by Suffolk County Council which provides jobs for people with disabilities.

Anyone interested in sponsoring a bench should contact Vicky Bright, assistant to the town clerk, on (01638) 667227 or email vicky.bright@newmarket.gov.uk

Fire breaks out in combine harvester

FIREFIGHTERS were called out after a combine harvester caught light.

Two fire crews from Soham attended Chippenham Road, Fordham, just before 6.30pm on Thursday.

The fire, which started accidentally, was extinguished using two hose reels, one jet and one dry powder extinguisher. Crews returned to base by 8.45pm.

Crews deal with shed blaze

FIREFIGHTERS were called to a shed fire in Kingsway, Mildenhall, on Wednesday.

The blaze was under control within 10 minutes.

Mum banned for refusing breath test

A WOMAN fell asleep in the back of police car after she was arrested for refusing to take a breath test.

Penelope Hancock, 46, was arrested after her car crashed into a fence near her home in Dalham, at 4.15pm on Monday, August 23.

Shini Cooksley, prosecuting, said police officers found it a "challenge" to get her in the back of their car to take her to the police station.

"She fell asleep in the back of the car and at the police station she was unable to stand up without support," said Mrs Cooksley.

Hancock, of The Street, Dalham, admitted refusing a roadside breath test and failing to give a breath specimen at the police station. She was banned from driving for three years, fined £400 and was ordered to pay £85 costs and £15 victim surcharge.

Magistrates did not offer her the chance of reducing the ban by taking a drink-drive rehabilitation course because she had taken the course in 2008 when she was banned from driving for a previous similar offence.

Mark Thompson, mitigating, said Hancock, a mother of two grown-up children, had been co-operative with the police apart from refusing the breath test.

Fayre celebrates British food

PRODUCERS from beekeepers to cheesemakers and free range pig farmers to brewers will tempt visitors at a weekend fair.

La Hogue Farm Shop, in Chippenham, will celebrate British Food Fortnight by hosting more than 50 local and British producers at its fifth annual Producer Fayre.

It has grown into one of the largest food festivals in East Anglia and takes place this year on Saturday and Sunday, September 18 and 19.

The producers, including many from Suffolk and Cambridgeshire, will be offering free samples and information on how the tasty goods are produced.

Farm machinery agents Ben Burgess will also be supplying a "fun display" of modern machinery, and there will be free toy tractor and jeep rides

Changes to Tattersalls breeze up calendar

TATTERSALLS is to restructure the calendar for its two breeze up sales in 2011.

The Tattersalls Guineas Breeze Up will be replaced by a new fixture at Tattersalls Ireland and the Tattersalls Craven Breeze Up, Europe's premier sale of two-year-olds in training, will be expanded to accommodate around 250 lots. Tattersalls Ireland will aim to catalogue 100 2-year-olds for the new sale on Thursday, April 28. All lots will breeze in the morning at Fairyhouse racecourse, across the road from the Tattersalls Ireland sales complex, and the sale will take place in the afternoon. Edmond Mahoney, Tattersalls chairman, said: "The changes reflect much of the feedback we have received from both vendors and purchasers alike."

Feedback: Edmond Mahoney.

"The Craven Breeze Up is the premier sale of its type in Europe. It attracts buyers from all over the world and rather than asking buyers to attend two sales in Newmarket, it makes sense to increase the numbers to offer a wider cross-section of 2-year-olds at the number one sale. "At the same time Tattersalls Ireland is ideally placed to stage a sale of around 100 2-year-olds in the same week that consignors would previously have headed for the Guineas Breeze Up."

Colt with connections

THE half-brother of Cape Blanco, winner of the Group 1 Tattersalls Millions Irish Champion Stakes at Leopardstown, will be up for sale in Newmarket. Catalogued as lot 370 in the Tattersalls October Yearling Sale Book 1, which features the only yearlings eligible for the £1,750,000 Tattersalls Millions race series, the Oratorio colt out of Laurel Delight is also a half-brother to the Grade 1 placed Mr O'Brien.

The Oratorio colt will be consigned by Garraun Stud in Co Tipperary, Ireland, for the Tattersalls October Yearling Sale Book 1, which takes place on October 5-7. Catalogues are available from Tattersalls or its representatives and online at www.tattersalls.com

Rededication for Cooper memorial

A MEMORIAL to a leading figure in the horseracing world has been restored 100 years after it was erected.

The Cooper Memorial is one of Newmarket's landmarks standing on the grass verge at the Cambridge end of the High Street.

Earlier this year the town council paid £4,000 to have the stonework cleaned and restored. The Newmarket in Bloom committee planted flowers in what were previously horse troughs at the base of the memorial.

A rededication ceremony for the memorial, to Sir Daniel Cooper, was attended by his great great granddaughter Lady Caroline Simmonds and her daughter, Rose.

In our weekly column, reporter JOHN GOODE takes a look behind the racing scene to bring you news from in and around the stables.

Lady Caroline, who travelled from her home in Chesham, Buckinghamshire, for the ceremony, said: "I'm absolutely thrilled that the memorial has been renovated.

"When I stopped in Newmarket last year for lunch at the Jockey Club I was depressed and saddened by the state it was in. But it looks absolutely magnificent now."

"I have also learned a lot about Daniel Cooper that I didn't know before."

The memorial was built in 1910, a year after Sir Daniel's death, by his wife Lady Harriet.

She intended that it would be visible from their home at Warren Towers at the opposite end of the town on Warren Hill.

Sir Daniel became a member of the Jockey Club in 1894 and served on the estate and house committees. He was a committee member of Rous Memorial Hospital – now Rous Court sheltered housing for the elderly – and a supporting member of the Astley Institute.

He was a local magistrate on the Newmarket and Cambridgeshire bench and a keen yachtsman.

He had horses in training at Heath House stables, including the filly Melody which finished in the 1000 Guineas in 1891 and went on to win Prince of Wales' Stakes at Royal Ascot the next season.

Sir Daniel, who died in London, was brought back to Newmarket by special train and his ashes are interred at the cemetery.

Lady Caroline was presented with a certificate and a photograph of the memorial by Newmarket's mayor Cllr Mick Jefferys.

Wall walk to help welfare

THREE employees of Jockey Club Estates hope to walk the length of Hadrian's Wall in three days for charity.

Company secretary Richard Attwell and property manager Neil Kellett will be joined by managing director William Gittus for the 84-mile trek.

They set off on Saturday and are raising money for Racing Welfare, particularly the work carried out by Graham Locking, Chaplain to Racing.

And the other half of the money raised will go to Help For Heroes, which raises money for injured armed services personnel.

Two of the three walkers were Army officers.

The team, who aim to raise £3,000, will have to double their efforts on the three-day walk – in training they have been covering 12 miles at a time.

To support the team, send a cheque payable to Jockey Club Estates Limited to Jockey Club Estates Limited, 101 High Street, Newmarket, CB8 8JL.

Several car parking facilities open for owners and trainers

THE new trainers' and owners' car park on The Severals is now open.

The facility on Bury Road opened on last Wednesday after the land had settled and the newly-seeded grass had grown sufficiently.

Cllr Richard Fletcher said: "The Jockey Club have done an excellent job and I would like to thank them publicly for their efforts.

"I hope the provision of this new space will mean that it is no longer necessary for trainers and others to park on the Bury Road pavement or grass verge, which is not only unsightly but potentially dangerous."

Four facing kidnap charges in custody

THREE men and a youth facing kidnapping and assault charges have been remanded in custody to appear at Crown court.

They are alleged to have put their two victims through a "brutal and sadistic ordeal" after being driven in a van from Mildenhall to a wood yard in remote Sedge Fen, near Lakenheath, Bury St Edmunds magistrates were told on Friday.

The court heard that Darryl Turner and Lee Morgan are alleged to have been beaten, stripped naked, doused in petrol and sprayed with paint.

One managed to escape but the other was dumped in a remote area.

Legal representatives for the four defendants said they denied any involvement in the incident.

The four – Gary Buckley, 18, of Willow Park, Beck Row, Ronald Vinden, 18, of Waterside, Isleham, Michael Jones, 20, of Sedge Fen, Lakenheath, and a 16-year-old youth from a Cambridgeshire village who cannot be named for legal reasons – are each facing two charges of false imprisonment and assault. The offences are alleged to have been committed on August 20.

Applications for bail on their behalf were refused by the magistrates and the case was sent to Ipswich Crown Court for a preliminary hearing on Tuesday, September 14.

A 22-year-old man from Brandon who has been questioned by police investigating the incident has been released on bail to report back to Bury St Edmunds police station on November 3.

AROUND 25 community organisations set out their stalls in a town's main shopping area to let people know what they do.

The annual Clubs and Organisations day in Mildenhall's Market Precinct on Saturday was officially opened by West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock.

The event moved to the precinct last year after previously being held in the town's Jubilee Centre.

The event also coincided with a presentation of a certificate to mark the award of Quality Parish status to Mildenhall.

Confusion over charging times

Sir, I have cause to write regarding my experience with car parking terms in Newmarket.

I was recently issued with a ticket when I was under the impression that I had already purchased one covering the time I was parked for.

I think in order to understand my view, and one I suspect of the Newmarket public, I should provide some background information. Some time in 2009 I had parked my car in one of the Newmarket car parks on a Friday night with the intention of picking it up early Saturday morning after a night out (safer than driving home after a couple of pints). However, after oversleeping I was a little late and arrived to find a ticket on my windscreen (it was about 930am), and the attendant in the vicinity.

I spoke to him about it and he advised me that next time I should buy a ticket the night before and it would commence the clocked period from the beginning of the car park charge hours the following morning. In this instance I had to pay the parking ticket as I was parked without any ticket and I had little cause for complaint.

Wind the clock forward to June and I again parked my car in Newmarket on a Friday night before going into town.

This time I purchased a ticket and left it in the window.

The ticket was purchased at approximately 6pm.

I returned on Saturday morning before 11am to find I again had been given a ticket.

When I queried this in the nearby council office they pointed out that the ticket covered me for three hours beginning from 6pm the previous night, NOT beginning at 8am the following day.

Please bear in mind that the car parks in Newmarket have published hours of charge that are between 8am and 4pm each day, Monday to Saturday. However, the new ticket machines have been programmed to accept any and all money at any time of the day and they will start charging from that time even if no charges apply.

I have since seen quite a few people putting money into the machines outside of the chargeable hours as they are confused.

In my opinion these machines should return any monies when it is entered and not required or at the very least they should begin the charge period from within a valid period when charging applies.

In my opinion this is tantamount to theft – accepting money when none is required!

On appeal I did receive a ticket waiver but was warned that it would not happen again.

I also queried this with the person responsible for estates and they informed me that the council auditors had directed them to make this change to the parking scheme, no doubt so that they could further increase their income.

This on top of the fact that none of the machines give change and have recently stopped offering a 30-minute free park period.

All in all a very, very disappointing from our local council and local people should be made aware of this behaviour.

Line up please! Our Memories picture this week sees a group of excited young children heading off somewhere. Do you know where those youngsters were going and do you recognise anyone? Could you say when the photograph, from our archives, was taken? We welcome your letters or emails.

Send your recollections to: Memories, Newmarket Weekly News, 15 High Street, Newmarket, CB8 8XL, or email editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk by Tuesday morning. 674906

■ Last week's Memories picture, from our archives, showed a group of four people at Newmarket Upper School. The photograph was spotted by Inspector Peter Ferrie, who lives in the Newmarket area. He reveals that the photograph was taken at Newmarket Upper School. It was taken before they went to London to a United Nations conference when the organisation was trying to attract young people to work for the UN. He said it was a good day but he never did work for the UN. Pictured, from left, are Michelle Atherton (upper sixth form), Mr Hannam, Peter Ferrie (upper sixth form) and a pupil he cannot remember but may be a lower sixth former. The photograph was taken in January, 1986. Reader Sue Johnson also recognised people in the picture. She writes: "The teacher, second from left, is Bob Hannam who was head of history at the school. "Sadly Bob died very suddenly earlier this year at his home in the West Country."

Town has gone to the dogs

Sir, This is my home town but lately I feel it has gone to the dogs – not the horses that Newmarket is famous for.

It seems that there is dog mess everywhere, even outside my front door, and I am trying to avoid stepping in this health hazard left by owners who don't pick it up. Why is it that no-one seems to be issuing fines for leaving the mess. It is the same sort of anti-social behaviour that the authorities are "clamping down" on.

The trouble is that nothing can be done unless they are caught in the act. There are not enough CCTV cameras.

Full value for the taxpayer

Sir, Following publication of my letter last week ('Not more historic dereliction'), I would like to clarify the first paragraph after editing changed the sense. My point was that Save Historic Newmarket Action Group's (SHNAG) legitimate concern should not be allowed to prevent the development of Rockfield House and in particular the ability of the local authority to realise its full value for the benefit of the taxpayer.

LETTERS POLICY

Letters should arrive by noon on the Monday before publication.

Full name and address must be supplied and details will be withheld only in exceptional circumstances.

Letters should be no longer than 250 words and may be edited.

Stolen TV dumped

A TELEVISION stolen from a house was found dumped in the back garden. The flat screen television and cash were stolen after a door was forced at the house in St Mary's Square, Newmarket. The television and cash were valued at £200. Anyone with information about the burglary which happened between 5pm and 6.05pm on Monday, August 30, should call Det Sgt Helen Sowerby at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Trailer taken from yard

A TRAILER worth around £1,500 has been stolen from a yard after thieves dismantled a fence. The trailer – normally used for transporting a mini-digger, was stolen from the yard in Gazeley Road, Moulton, between 6pm on Friday, August 27 and 11am the following day. Anyone with information should call Pc John Gowing at the Mildenhall Safer Neighbourhood Team on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

£5.4m ward is opened

SEVERELY ill and injured patients have finally moved into a new £5.4 million ward extension at Addenbrooke's Hospital. After 18 months of building, workmen have completed the new wing of the hospital's intensive care and high dependency units, which care for some of Addenbrooke's most vulnerable patients. The new four-storey extension doubles the number of beds previously available. There are now 15 intensive care beds and 17 high dependency beds compared to just 11 and four two years ago.

The work is part of the hospital's 2020 Vision scheme, which aims to double the size of the existing 70-acre hospital within 10 years.

Burglar grabs jewellery box

A BURGLARY got away with a jewellery box and cash, together valued at around £35. The thief got into the house in Nimbus Way, Newmarket, between 12.20pm and 7.45pm on Saturday, August 28 by smashing a window. Anyone with information should call Det Sgt Carl Dye at West Suffolk CID on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Private forensic team called in over cottage fire

BY JOHN GOODE

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

INDEPENDENT forensic investigators have been called in to help with a probe into two fires on the same night which led to a family being made homeless.

The roof of a 200-year-old cottage in Casburn Lane, Burwell, was destroyed and the rest of the house affected by water from a burst water tank and firefighters' hoses.

Michael Biss, 40, his wife Stephanie, and their twin three-year-old sons have been put up at a Newmarket hotel by their insurers while they search for temporary accommodation.

The blaze broke out less than two hours after firefighters extinguished a blaze in a neighbour's shed.

The flames from the blaze melted the gutter on Mr and Mrs Biss's home.

It is thought that a spark from the original fire lodged in the roof of the cottage.

Mr Biss, who was on his own in the house while his wife and sons were on holiday in Cornwall, was alerted when a smoke alarm – loaned by a neighbour – went off.

He went outside to have a cigarette when a window in the roof shattered and flames leapt through it.

Firefighters from Burwell were called back to extinguish the blaze, in the early hours of Bank Holiday Monday, assisted by a crew from Newmarket.

Andy Watson, assistant director of operations at Cambridgeshire Fire and Rescue Service, said: "The fire service is now conducting a thorough investigation into the cause of the house fire in partnership with the owner of the house and

Wrecked: an independent investigation is being held into the blaze at this cottage in Casburn Lane, Burwell. 674734

Hawkins – a local fire investigation company. This is still ongoing.

"One cause that we will be looking into is the possibility that the house fire was caused by a stray spark or ember from the original shed fire."

Hawkins, based at Cambridge Science Park, is a leader in forensic investigations on behalf of insurance companies.

Dahlia delight: the new display at Anglesey Abbey is in full bloom and checking the flowers is Richard Todd, head gardener. Below, one of the beautiful blooms to admire.

Pictures: Roger Adams 674620 / 674626

Dahlias bring autumn colour in new display

DAZZLING dahlias have come into bloom in a vibrant new garden display. The National Trust's Anglesey Abbey and Gardens in Lode is home to the colourful flowers as they come into season.

With entertaining names such as White Charlie Two, Pinelands Pixie and Tahoma Tomtom, the dahlias come in a number of colours. And even the experts have accidents.

Richard Todd, head gardener at the Abbey, said: "We are dependent on the accuracy of catalogues and what comes in the parcels, just like any gardener."

"Sometimes it goes wrong and this year, for instance, we ordered a variety described as orange. When it came into flower in the bed, it turned out to be bright red."

"It's still a beautiful flower but it shows you never know definitely what colour it will be until it flowers."

More than 250 dahlia plants now on show should last until the start of winter, with charts to tell visitors the name of their favourites.

The garden is open 10.30am-5.30pm Monday to Sunday, and entry costs £9.30 for adults, £5.15 for children. Call (01223) 810080 or visit www.nationaltrust.org.uk/angleseyabbey

Force's new chief takes up his post

THE new Chief Constable of Cambridgeshire took up his post on Monday – and faces a bleak financial outlook.

Simon Parr has replaced Julie Spence in the top job after a move from Hertfordshire Constabulary, where he was Deputy Chief Constable for three years.

Mr Parr will tackle the expected cuts to the force budget vowing to focus resources on frontline policing.

Mrs Spence, who retired on Sunday, described Government plans to cut its budget by up to 40 per cent as a recipe for "Armageddon".

The force faces £33 million in cuts over the next four years.

Mr Parr, 49, who was sworn in on Monday, said: "It is a real honour to be given the opportunity to serve the people of Cambridgeshire and build on the successful work of Julie Spence."

"I know there are challenging times ahead. But I am sure that with the dedication of my staff and close working relationships with partner agencies we can continue to ensure Cambridgeshire is a safe place to live, work and visit."

Book a bus ride from your home

A NEW bus service which can pick up passengers from their own homes is now in operation.

The Suffolk Links demand responsive transport (DRT) service covers the Three Towns area which includes Newmarket, Haverhill and Bury St Edmunds.

It is being operated by the Newmarket-based Voluntary Network which already runs a dial-a-ride minibus service.

The new service, sponsored by Suffolk County Council, requires passengers to book their journey in advance.

BY JOHN GOODE
Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

Currently bookings may need up to a week's notice. But the operators are hoping to reduce the time down to just two hours for the service which runs from 7am to 7pm.

For longer journeys the minibus will take passengers to bus stops where they can connect with a regular bus service.

At the same time the Mulleys 225 bus service between Newmarket, Haverhill and Stradishall has been withdrawn.

Villages served by the new service include The Wrattings, Thurlows and Bradleys, Withersfield, Barnardiston, Stradishall, Wickhambrook, Cowlinge, Lidgate and Ousden.

County councillor Tim Marks, was among councillors given a briefing about the new service.

He said: "People will have a door-to-door service and won't need to hang around in the rain for a bus that might not come."

"If I was an elderly person in rural Suffolk I would welcome this service."

He said a similar service had been operating successfully in the east of the county for about three months.

He added: "I'm very much in favour of it. There's a lot of waste in transport with double-decker buses running around with only two or three people on board."

"What we need are some smaller buses."

Pensioners' free bus passes will be valid on the "demand responsive" buses as will young people's Explore cards.

Other passengers will pay equivalent fares to normal buses.

For bookings and information call 0845 6041802.

Join campaign to receive faster broadband

VILLAGERS wanting super-fast broadband are urged to back a new campaign.

Service providers are planning to lay fibre optic cables in towns around Cambridgeshire in the next few years, but this would still leave a quarter of the county's population without high-speed internet.

A bid has been launched to ensure rural communities have the same access as those in towns and cities. It aims to register demand for super-fast broadband to show firms that investing in fibre optic cables would be worthwhile.

The bid is being supported by district councils in East Cambridgeshire and Fenland, South Cambridgeshire, and Cambridgeshire County Council.

Cllr Nick Wright, South Cambridgeshire District Council's economic development boss, said: "We know how important the internet is for communities, including businesses, in south Cambridgeshire and improving the speed of services will help encourage more businesses to the area and make life easier for those already based here."

Residents can back their bid by visiting the Eastern Region Broadband Uplift Scheme at www.erebusonline.org.uk

'I won't let Alzheimer's disease change who I am'

TERESA Hart makes a mean lemon drizzle cake.

Handing round a plate, heavily laden with slices of sweet and sticky sponge, she is entertaining teatime guests; chatting away nineteen to the dozen, she's a natural host.

To her visitors, Teresa appears much like any other woman her age. The 61-year-old adores her family: it's not long before the photo albums come out, showcasing the smiling faces of children and grandchildren.

Teresa has a busy social life; a keen churchgoer and fundraiser, she and husband Cecil hold regular coffee mornings for charity. And, of course, she's a prodigious baker – as anyone who's sampled her lemon tray bake will know.

But when everyone's gone home, the door is closed and the curtains drawn, it becomes clear that Teresa is not like most middle-aged women. She struggles to read and write. She can't pop to the shops or iron a skirt. She can't even get herself dressed unaided.

Like almost half a million other people in the UK, Teresa has Alzheimer's disease. The most common form of dementia, it is an incurable, degenerative and, ultimately, terminal condition. Caused by so-called "plaques" and "tangles" in the brain – which lead to the death of brain cells – it results in a raft of symptoms: confusion, memory loss, mood swings, impaired language skills and, eventually, the breakdown of basic bodily functions.

BY ALICE RYAN

Email: editorial@newmarketweeklynews.co.uk

"When the doctor said: 'It's Alzheimer's' it was a horrible shock," admits Teresa. "But I decided then that I would carry on and live my life as normally as possible – and that I wouldn't let this illness change me, who I am.

"It's not always easy. I do feel frustrated sometimes; sometimes I feel sad. But I want to let people know there is life after being diagnosed with Alzheimer's."

Teresa and Cecil, who live in Buckden, near Huntingdon, are lending their support to World Alzheimer's Day: a global event designed to raise both awareness of the disease and funds for research and support charities, it falls on September 21 this year.

"The next coffee morning we do will be in aid of Alzheimer's," says Cecil, 75.

Teresa adds: "It's an illness which doesn't just hurt you, it hurts your whole family. Anything we can do to help, we will."

Teresa was diagnosed with Alzheimer's in her late 50s. She had been having problems with her eyesight for years; unable to get to the root of the problem, her optician referred her to the hospital – where scans revealed a rare early-onset form of the disease.

"It was a hell of a shock to us both," recalls Cecil. "At the time I didn't really understand what Alzheimer's meant: it made me think all sorts, of old people wandering about and getting lost... I just didn't know what to expect.

"In fact, Alzheimer's has changed our lifestyle completely. I have to do all kinds of things round the house that I'd never done before; the hardest thing of all is sorting out Teresa's clothes.

"She needs a new bra at the moment. I didn't fancy going to a shop so I went to get one on the internet, but I ended up on eBay by mistake... It's things like that – things which Teresa would have done without thinking – that are the hardest of all."

Since her diagnosis, almost two years ago, both Cecil and Teresa agree her condition has deteriorated. The only place Teresa can go alone is the church within Buckden Towers, just down the road from the Harts' house. She attends a service there most mornings.

"My faith gives me great strength," says Teresa. "I know He is with me every day; He's been with me through lots of bad times. I pray every day: sometimes when I'm just walking along the road I'll say a little prayer.

"Going to church gives me some quiet time. And I feel safe there. Most people know me. Members of the congregation are asked to read out sections of the service, but they know I can't – so they just pass the book along to the next person in the pew, without saying a word. It's nice not having to explain."

In the months following her diagnosis, Teresa's health took quite a sharp turn; it reached the point where she couldn't even bake her famous cakes. "Sometimes I go to the cupboard and just can't find what I need," she explains. "I can't read any of the labels... I get totally confused."

But – thanks to the Alzheimer's drug Donepezil, which eases symptoms – Teresa is now baking again. "I have to get all the ingredients out before I start and I have to close the kitchen door behind me: I can't be interrupted. But I have been able to bake a few cakes, which is really nice."

Strange and crowded places can be stressful for Teresa; there's no way, she admits, she could go into town without Cecil. "It's like something else is leading you: you turn left or right and then don't know where you are," she continues. "It can be a bit frightening. But Cecil is wonderful. He'll hold onto me if there are lots of people around.

"To be honest, I don't think I would have survived if it wasn't for him – and our amazing family. The children are always coming to see us, and the grandchildren.

"With that kind of support you can't really get fed up or down: there's always a reason to smile."

While she chats, Teresa leafs through a scrapbook she's been making. Full of snapshots, it charts the progress of her two youngest granddaughters, both still babies. "That's Ruby, look, and Jasmine – aren't they lovely?" asks Teresa. "I love doing this book. It helps me remember. More than anything, I want to see these children grow up."

Teresa and Cecil, a retired carpenter and joiner, have four children and five grandchildren. One of their daughters, Lorraine, was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis – the most common disabling neurological condition among young adults in the UK – aged just 29.

"Like me, she has good days and bad days," says Teresa. "But we're all positive. If you smile and you're happy, and you can make a joke of things when they go wrong, I think you're much better off."

Cecil, better known to his many friends as Mouse, is Teresa's main carer. He's had his share of health troubles, too – a heart scare, a whole series of knee ops, diabetes – and admits looking after his wife isn't always easy.

"I do feel angry sometimes. It's so frustrating when she can't see something that's right there, on the table in front of her. Occasionally I have raised my voice, and I've felt sorry about it afterwards."

"Not that we don't enjoy ourselves: we still have a laugh. We see friends every Friday, go out on day trips, go on holiday – last time we did a bus holiday, which made it a bit easier, because you can just get on and go.

"When we're in company, Teresa looks absolutely fine, she's a perfect looking woman. It's when the door's closed and the curtains are drawn, that's when it really gets hard."

"And I find the not knowing hard too – not knowing how this illness will progress, or how fast."

Teresa admits: "I do have bad days, days when I get up, everything starts going wrong and I decide to just go back to bed for a bit. But I believe you have to be positive and have to try to overcome what's happening to you. And you have to take each day as it comes – in fact, that's the only thing you can do."

'The greatest medical challenge'

THERE are more than 6,000 people in Cambridgeshire living with the daily reality of dementia, and 820,000 throughout the UK – figures forecast to rise significantly in the next generation. Dementia has been described as "the greatest medical challenge of our generation", yet research is drastically under-funded, particularly in comparison with other serious diseases. The Alzheimer's Research Trust, the UK's leading dementia research charity, raises money to fund world-class research to find preventions, treatments and the ultimate cure. It is currently funding 120 promising projects across the country, including more than £1.8 million of research projects in Cambridge. The charity relies entirely on its supporters to raise money, including those people who leave a gift in their will. Free information about Alzheimer's disease and related dementias is available from the Alzheimer's Research Trust by calling (01223) 843899 or online at www.alzheimers-research.org.uk. Battle of the Brains

The challenge is on to raise money for the Alzheimer's Research Trust. Everyone loves a quiz! It's a fun, easy way to get people together and raise money as well as being a great social event – whether at home, with family and friends, with colleagues or a local community group.

Every £12.50 raised will pay for one hour of vital research. A free fundraising pack is available with handy tips on how to organise a Battle of the Brains quiz night, complete with posters to promote the event and question and answer sheets. To request a fundraising pack contact Jodie Thompson on (01223) 843899 or email fundraising@alzheimers-research.org.

Man admitted slapping his partner in face after argument

A MAN admitted slapping his partner in the face after climbing through a window into her home, when he appeared before a court.

Timothy Duane Gray admitted one charge of assault by beating when he appeared before magistrates in Bury St Edmunds on Monday.

Ian Devine, prosecuting, said a member of the public called police after seeing an altercation take place between Gray and his partner in Warrington Street, Newmarket, in the early hours of August 14.

Mr Devine said Gray, 27, and his partner were "covered in blood" when officers arrived at the house.

He said: "Mr Gray was covered in many lacerations."

But he said Gray's injuries were not as a result of his partner, but because Gray had climbed through a broken window and cut himself.

He said the pair had been on a night out and became separated and Gray went to find his partner at her home.

He discovered a broken window at the rear of the property, which he climbed through before assaulting her.

When arrested by police, Mr Devine said Gray said: "I did slap her across the face."

The court heard that there was just a single blow to the face and the couple had since split up.

The offence was committed not long after the expiry of an 18-month community order for a previous offence.

The court heard Gray, of Chestnut Crescent, Whittlesey, had 22 previous convictions, the latest of those in January 2009.

Magistrates adjourned the case until Monday September 27, at the same court for the preparation of pre-sentence reports.

Gray was released on unconditional bail and magistrates indicated he was likely to receive a community order at the lower end of the scale as a punishment.

Award-winning duo Antony and Barbara take over at the Fox

AN award-winning couple have taken over a village pub.

Antony and Barbara Marshall, who are the new landlord and landlady at the Fox Inn in Ousden, previously ran the True Lovers Knot in Tarrant Keyneston, Dorset.

During six years there they picked up awards for their treatment of people with disabilities including blindness and deafness.

They were also praised for catering for people with coeliac disease – intolerance to gluten, including wheat products.

The pub was named Pub of the Year in the National Pub Awards scheme run by the licensed trade's newspaper, the Morning Advertiser.

Mr Marshall, 41, was also named club steward of the year when he previously ran Newmarket's Exning Road Working Men's Club.

He said: "We missed Suffolk so much we decided to come back."

He said a hearing loop would be fitted in the pub for people with hearing aids.

He and his wife have learned to recognise sign language and would be producing menus in Braille.

The couple, who have a daughter Carla, 6, are just settling in to the pub and establishing their menu, which includes options for coeliacs.

Order for trainer who harassed wife

A RACEHORSE trainer who harassed his wife by phone and smashed a window at her home has been sentenced to an 18-month community order.

Nicholas Moore, a former jockey, was also excluded from the family home for two months by magistrates at Bury St Edmunds.

Recovering alcoholic Moore, 37, was sentenced on Monday having previously admitted charges of criminal damage and harassment without violence relating to incidents in May this year.

Ian Devine, prosecuting, said Moore was married for 18 months and the couple were together for three years, but a deterioration in the relationship was caused by his alcohol abuse.

Mr Devine said: "He would go through stages of being dry and then binge drink."

Moore contacted his wife within days of being released from jail, where he had served time for a drink-related motoring offence.

Mr Devine said Moore bombarded his wife with phone calls and voicemail messages on May 19 and 20, wanting to know why she would not see him.

She turned off her phone, but he turned up at her workplace under the influence of alcohol.

When she said she would tell police about the messages, Mr Devine said Moore told her: "If you do that, I will kill you."

Moore turned up at her home on May 21, demanding to know why she would not communicate with him.

He banged on the kitchen window and she dialled 999 – and when she denied him entry to the house, she heard a window being smashed. Mr Devine said Moore was seen outside with a broom.

Mr Devine said Moore's wife had been supportive of his efforts to tackle his alcoholism.

He said she did not want Moore to go to prison and wanted him to complete a rehabilitation programme in Bournemouth.

The court heard Moore had paid for the damage done to the window and was willing to engage in rehabilitation.

Magistrates sentenced Moore to an 18-month community order with an 18-month supervision requirement.

He was excluded from the family home for two months and ordered to pay £85 costs.

Nearly 1,500 caught speeding

MORE than 1,450 motorists were caught speeding in Suffolk during a week-long European speed enforcement campaign. The campaign, lead by TISPOL – the European Traffic Police Network – ran between Monday August 23 and Sunday August 29 across the county.

It was held during a month in which Suffolk police's roads policing unit was already running its own dedicated crackdown. Increased checks and enforcement have been seen throughout the county as officers focus their efforts on one aspect of road safety each month. A reduction in excess speed was the objective for August and motorists were warned of the TISPOL campaign in advance publicity.

But 1,116 people were still caught by police officers and Suffolk Safety Camera Partnership cameras and a further 337 were caught by fixed cameras in the county.

In a similar campaign in April this year, 900 motorists were caught speeding.

BullFest pulls in £1,000 for medics

MORE than 1,500 people enjoyed blues, rock and reggae at a festival that raised £1,000 for the East Anglian Air Ambulance.

The Olde Bull Inn at Barton Mills staged BullFest 2010, a day packed with live music from seven talented acts.

The pub management said the festival was made possible with the help of numerous local businesses, including Global Fire Services, CRN Electrical, Rolfe Carpentry and Cut and Tuck. Work is already underway preparing for next year's BullFest, which will be held on Saturday August 27.

MILDENHALL

THE second of the monthly sessions, when electors and parishioners can speak on issues they choose with local parish councillors, will be held in the LEAP Centre in the Mildenhall Town Precinct on Saturday from 10.30am for an hour. People who were hoping to go to the normal First Saturday session at West Row village hall were asked, last week, to go instead to the 'Clubs and Organisations Day' held in the Mildenhall Precinct, where West Row members were present.

More than half the Mildenhall councillors, together with more than 2,000 local inhabitants and other visitors, enjoyed a thoroughly successful day on Saturday, when the parish council staged its second Clubs and Organisations and Clubs Day in the town centre shopping precinct. And after the event had been opened by the West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock, Mildenhall chairman Cllr Brian Sulman – to great applause, – received the prestigious Quality Parish Status award on behalf of the council.

Making the presentation on behalf of the Suffolk County accreditation panel was the chief executive officer of the Suffolk Association of Local Councils, Shona Bendix, who offered very warm congratulations to the council as she explained the great significance of this award. She singled out Mildenhall's CEO Caroline Steggles, who had successfully produced a large CILCA folder of documentation as part of the enterprise.

With staff and members, led by Cllr Tony Wheble, up early to prepare the stalls, the day attracted some two dozen organisations, from sporting groups like Mildenhall Cycling and Rugby Clubs and Beck Row Bikers to local organisations such as the Bunbury Players and the Mildenhall Museum, St Mary's Church and the Royal British Legion branch – with a neighbouring Help for Heroes stall.

Probably the most appealing to very many of the audience and visitors were two quite delightful performances by the young dancers of the K.A.T.S group, a town theatre school, whose mentor is fortunately now recovering from a severe debilitating illness. The youngsters in the first morning performance particularly deserve high praise, since they valiantly danced on when an elderly lady spectator close to them collapsed and needed emergency treatment by paramedics.

Some of the best-loved programmes currently showing on television are those such as Antiques Roadshow, Cash in the Attic and similar, with many viewers, while they watch, probably thinking, "well, perhaps I could do better than that", as those participating either succeed or, as quite often happens, fail miserably in their quest for cash or sales. Members of the Beck Row Thursday Club had no similar feelings at their first meeting of the month last Thursday, when chairman Jean Butcher (as auctioneer), aided by her committee colleague Joan Topliss (as cash collector), acted out their own version of "Bring and Bid" – not the same, it should be said, as bring and buy! Things went with a swing, with lots of humour and with a reasonable sum being garnered for club treasurer Pat Barker to put into their funds. The last-named's main task that day, however, was to collect names of those members wishing to participate on their next day trip out, to Colchester on Thursday, September 16, with several regular "outside visitors" already wanting to join the group.

Unusually this is a five-Thursday month, so there will be another home fixture held again in the Lambale Close Community Centre on September 30, when their original speaker, Mary Griffiths, has sadly had to withdraw.

But club secretary Barbara Marchant is already on the lookout for a suitable replacement, ensuring members another cheerful afternoon's entertainment.

First pub ban made by court

A MAN with a record of drink-related crime has been banned from pubs and clubs in Newmarket.

Curtis Miller, 24, is the first person to be issued with a drinking banning order in the town following a joint application to magistrates by Forest Heath District Council and Suffolk police.

One previous application against a different man was turned down by magistrates earlier this year and two other applications were withdrawn.

The order, which applies for the next 12 months, covers licensed premises in Newmarket High Street, Grosvenor Yard, Wellington Street and Sun Lane.

Miller, of Perriman Close, Newmarket, did not appear in court at Bury St Edmunds when the order was made. He previously indicated that he intended to contest the application.

In addition to the ban, he was ordered to pay £1,000 to cover the council's and the court's costs.

Pc Ian Holyland told the court that Miller had a number of convictions for drink-related offences.

He said that he was convicted of disorderly conduct in 2002 and of being drunk and disorderly in 2003.

There was a further offence in February this year and a battery offence in June which came to court in July.

For that offence he was made the subject of a community order with a curfew on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights between 9pm and 5am. The curfew is being enforced with electronic tagging.

Breaching the order can result in a fine of up to £2,500.

Inspector Neil Ireland, who heads the police safer neighbourhood teams in the Forest Heath district, said: "I am pleased that by working together with our partners at Forest Heath District Council, the first Drinking Banning Order has been implemented in this area following alcohol-related disorder in our town centres.

"The misuse of alcohol can lead to anti-social behaviour or crimes being committed, and can impact not only upon the friends and family of the individual but also on the wider community."

Free family fun at heritage hunt day

THERE will be activities for people of all ages at a free family fun day on Saturday.

The Soham Heritage and Buildings Preservation Trust is holding a Heritage Hunt Day in the town. For children, an I-Spy challenge trail is being organised, and those who take part will receive a goody bag. There will be a separate pack for adults who can explore town buildings.

The event, at the Walter Gidney Pavilion in Fountain Lane from 10am-4pm, will feature old photos and maps.

Nostalgic trip to the Welsh valleys

With Minder legend Dennis Waterman for a dad and actress Patricia Maynard for a mum, you'd have put money on Hannah Waterman following her creative folks into the acting profession. But a young, wilful Hannah had ideas of her own.

"I wanted to be a vet!" she laughs. "But I was never any good at science so it was a fairly ridiculous idea, really."

"Any parent is always glad to see their child happy and able to support themselves. But most actors who have children would say that the last thing they want their child to be is an actor!"

However, the theatrical blood was clearly coursing through her veins, and it was only natural that Hannah found herself treading the boards – best known for her portrayal of Laura Beale in EastEnders.

This month she takes to the stage in Nina Bawden's beloved children's tale of magic mystery and nostalgia, Carrie's War, which has remained a classic for more than 30 years. After a successful run in the West End, the stage adaptation of this tale of two evacuated children and the characters they encounter is appearing in Cambridge, complete with a sterling cast.

Scooping a role in the enchanting play is a particular pleasure for Hannah who grew up with the story as a girl. "I read the book as a kid and I loved it, it's a lovely story which you can really get involved with. And the adaptation's very true to the novel. "There are some very magical elements to the story, and it's seen through a child's eyes so there's an innocence to it," she says.

"Yet it's not all airy-fairy and mystical and magical, there's a brutal, real side to it as well. And I think what's lovely about it is that it's a family story which really crosses the generations. There's a resonance in it for the parents, the grandparents and the children. Quite often with theatre it's not universal, and you couldn't take your kids to it. But with this you absolutely can and I think that's to be encouraged."

Carrie's War tells the story of two ordinary children who are evacuated to a Welsh mining town at the start of the Second World War. The play, also starring Brit screen favourite Brigit Forsyth – the formidable Thelma in Whatever Happened to the Likely Lads? – features an impressive 13-strong cast who will be adorning the tale with various Welsh songs and hymns – all performed live.

Londoner Hannah – who lived with her husband, fellow EastEnders star Ricky Groves, in a village near St Neots until their recent split – can surely be forgiven for feeling a little apprehensive, as we all might, at the prospect of singing in a different language.

"It's quite a challenge because not only do I have to do a convincing Welsh accent – or hopefully convincing – amongst other Welsh people, I also have to speak in Welsh. And sing!"

Hannah began acting at school and attended the National Youth Theatre before embarking on her own career in the business. She recently filmed an episode of comedy crime drama New Tricks, starring alongside her dad. Between 2000 and 2004 Hannah was known across the nation for her part as Laura Dunn – later Beale – in EastEnders.

Hannah herself found romance on the Square and married Ricky Groves, who played Garry Hobbs, in 2006. The couple split in January this year.

The Carrie's War tour will be keeping Hannah busy until the end of November and she is looking forward to bringing the play to audiences across the country.

"As well as appealing to children it should provide a sort of nostalgic trip for the adults as well. It should be quite magical for everyone."

AMERICAN star Rachel Harrington returns to Acoustic Routes at CB2 in Cambridge this weekend with Lindisfarne founder member Rod Clements.

Raised in Oregon, Rachel performs a mix of bluegrass, folk and old time gospel that has drawn comparisons with Gillian Welch. Slide guitarist Rod Clements wrote some of Lindisfarne's best-loved and enduring songs including their Top Five hit Meet Me On The Corner.

Joining them at the Norfolk Street venue will be Fran McGillivray and Mike Burke who perform a unique acoustic mix of folk-blues and hauntingly original self-penned songs featuring Fran's soulful vocals, accompanied by her bass and flute, combined with Mike's intuitive and inventive guitar and resonator playing.

The music starts at 8.30pm on Saturday. Tickets are £9 and can be booked at www.acousticroutes.co.uk

Arctic artists

DRAWING together artworks held in both private and public British collections, the exhibition – Inuit Art: Masterworks from the Arctic, taking place at the Cambridge Scott Polar Museum – will examine an artistic movement that has only become established in its own right during the past few decades.

As part of the exhibition, two internationally renowned Inuit artists (printmaker Andrew Qappik and sculptor Jaco Ishulutaq) have been invited to work in Cambridge, where people can see them creating works.

The exhibition runs until tomorrow. See www.spri.cam.ac.uk/museum or call (01223) 336540.

Brighouse classic is refreshingly good

THE talented NOMADS open their autumn season this week with a most refreshing production of the Harold Brighouse classic, Hobson's Choice.

The show is running at The Kings Theatre in Newmarket until Saturday.

The play is set in Hobson's Boot Shop, in Salford, Lancashire, near the hometown of the author.

Brighouse was born in 1882 in Eccles, and he wrote and originally placed the play around 1914-15.

However, with the outbreak of war in 1914 he changed the date to 1880, and it became a comedy in an attempt to lighten the mood of the country at the time of writing.

The story revolves around Henry Horatio Hobson, his three daughters and his struggle to run his boot-making business whilst still maintaining control over his increasingly strong-willed girls. The most dominant of his daughters, Maggie, decides to marry the most skilled of Hobson's bootmakers, Will Mossop, and set up her own business with him, and so the story continues in a lighthearted way, with Hobson's increasing trips to the local public house and his own business decreasing, but with an eventual happy ending.

Directed by Wallace Wareham, assisted by Gail Baker, the production captures the atmosphere of the 1880s and Victorian England, and the beginning of the liberation of women in a subtle and interesting way. With his faultless eye for detail, Wallace Wareham's set and costume design places us right in the heart of how most of us can imagine this Lancashire location to be.

REVIEW: JANCIS HARVEY

Terry Smith as Hobson takes on quite a task as the eponymous hero, Hobson, and Brighouse has not made it easy for him, in that several of Hobson's own scenes are incredibly wordy and fairly drawn out and you feel, at times, the author could have sensibly edited some of the pages.

Nevertheless, the pace is kept well, and with Karen Thorpe as Maggie, the two main characters are well matched.

Karen is back 'on the boards' after a break, and there are some good exchanges, between herself and her sisters, Alice and Vicky (Kerry La Porte and Rebecca Littlechild). There are also some excellent moments between herself and Kristopher Camden as the naive William Mossop. It has to be said, at this point, that it is quite a challenge to take a play set in the heart of Salford and be 'spot on' with the particular and 'peculiar' dialects, and Kerry La Porte as a native of Lancashire is naturally at home with the native tongue. The rest of the company have worked hard with the accents.

Richard Clarkson, an expert with the North country brogue, is given the part of the Scottish doctor, Dr Macfarlane, and as always, is a great favourite with 'The Kings' audiences.

After years of faithful service in Young NOMADS and now NOMADS itself, it is good to see Liam Corbett being given the recognition he deserves, and he is excellent as Albert Prosser, the lawyer.

Following on his success in NMYT, Tom Bunting is very much at home with his role as Fred Beanstock. Whilst we have become accustomed to seeing Colin Scott in the 'Buttons' type role, it is great to see him as Timothy Wadlow.

The excellent cast of this most refreshing production is completed by David Dowle as Jim Heeler, and Teresa Baron as Mrs Hepworth.

Psychic Sally out on tour

WITH millions of fans, two best-selling books, a nationwide box office-busting tour to deliver and another TV series on the way, there is no stopping psychic Sally Morgan.

And she's coming to the Cambridge Corn Exchange on Thursday, September 23.

Sally says she had her first psychic experience at a young age and since then has been reading people's pasts and looking into their futures.

Sally has become a close and trusted friend of top show-business celebrities and royalty alike, famously reading for the likes of George Michael, Uma Thurman, and most notably, the late Princess Diana. She has more recently been linked to model and TV personality Katie Price.

As well as many TV appearances Sally has had two best-selling books and is currently writing her third book, Life After Death.

But for now she's back on the road and this autumn alone will play 74 shows in just 90 days.

The show starts at 7.30pm and tickets are £20.50.

The big film

certificate 12A 101m

ORIGINALLY entitled The Baster, which succinctly sums up the intentions of this quirky romantic comedy, Josh Gordon and Will Speck's film is a modern story of parenthood with two significant stumbling blocks: there is no sexual chemistry between the lead actors and Allan Loeb forgot to impregnate his script with big laughs.

Jason Bateman is a gifted comic actor but his beleaguered hero is deeply unsympathetic. He's a misery guts and once the character faces the repercussions of his actions, the subsequent emotional journey is too brief, culminating in an ultimatum for his love interest, played with customary ease by Jennifer Aniston.

On paper, the two are an unlikely couple. On the big screen, they are completely mismatched. Wally Mars (Bateman) loves his best friend Kassie Larson (Aniston) but cannot declare his true feelings for fear of losing her. They have the kind of relationship where she talks bluntly about her cervix over dinner and he nods blankly. He is shocked when she announces her plan to have a child with the help of a donor. The lucky father-to-be, Roland (Patrick Wilson), is a charming blonde and poor Wally drowns his sorrows, only to accidentally destroy the freshly produced pot of sperm. He attempts to cover up his blunder by replenishing the sample and wakes the next morning with a hangover and no recollection of his actions. Seven years later, when Wally finally meets Kassie's son, Sebastian (Thomas Robinson), he notices familiar behavioural ticks and suddenly the memory of that fateful night comes flooding back. The Switch grinds through the narrative gears without any sense of urgency, separating the lead characters for seven years so that Sebastian can grow up and start exhibiting some tell tale signs of his true parentage. Wilson is wasted in a thankless supporting role while Jeff Goldblum turns lacklustre lines into a giggle with his sarcastic delivery. Juliette Lewis is similarly impressive as the protective best friend, who doesn't want Wally getting in the way of Kassie playing happy families. Without them, Gordon and Speck's picture would be a massive bore.

Holiday's over, time for garden clean-up

If you've been away for the summer and returned to dried-up pots, overgrown borders and a mass of weeds, now's the time to play catch-up before everything spirals out of control.

Thanks to a pretty wet August, your grass will have grown but it's really long, don't try to cut it short in one fell swoop or you'll be cutting into thick brown stems which will leave your lawn looking like a mass of stubble.

Instead, do the mowing in stages, raising the blades as high as possible initially and then lowering them a notch each time you mow subsequently, so the grass will soon grow leafy again.

If your hanging baskets and containers have completely dried out, the plants may be beyond help so bite the bullet and empty the contents on to the compost heap – then you can get an early start with autumn displays and spring bulb plantings.

Containers holding year-round interest plants, such as shrubs or evergreens, may benefit from being submerged in a bucket of water to re-wet the compost, but take care not to waterlog the plants. After re-wetting, robust architectural plants such as phormiums and box can be lifted out of their containers with their root system intact to check if the compost has been completely soaked through.

If no-one has picked your crops in your absence, you are likely to come home to a large amount of stringy, tough runner beans which will need to be put on the compost heap, and the plants will probably have stopped flowering. Pick all the beans off the plants, give them some tomato feed and they should start producing again.

Tomatoes left unpicked and unwatered will be dead after two weeks, courgettes will have turned into marrows which have a more bitter flavour but are still edible, lettuces will have gone to seed and will need digging up and composting.

However, you can just sow some more in their place.

Carrots may have gone to seed but are still fine for eating. Herbs such as basil will have become quite bushy, so pinch out the tips and consider freezing some in ice cubes.

Try to find some time to clear vacant rows in your veg patch and refill them with autumn and winter crops immediately.

Borders should remain relatively unaffected if you've only had two weeks away and most areas have had some rain this August.

However, plants such as sweet peas will have developed pods which will need cutting off so that they may flower again. All summer flowering plants will need deadheading and watering.

The leaves of newly-planted shrubs may start to look dull if they've been exposed to prolonged dry weather. Cut back damaged perennials to where the stems seem to be green and healthy. Cut back all brown stems and leaves and water plants thoroughly. Don't rely on rain alone. Established trees and shrubs are unlikely to have been affected while you were away.

With the heavy rain over August, weeds will have grown and will be threatening to shed seeds – which will lead to more headaches next year if you don't remove them now.

Check your pond for foreign bodies which may have fallen in, such as birds or mice, and carefully remove and dispose of them.

All perennial plants that have now finished flowering can either be cut down or left until the spring. Cutting them down makes for a tidy winter garden, but foliage, whether it be dead or alive, helps keep the garden warmer over winter, so it can be left if you can bear the unsightliness.

In the greenhouse, give everything a good feed and water, deadhead flowering plants, harvest ripe crops and have a good clear-up as you prepare for autumn and winter.

Don't leave all these jobs for much longer, or you'll end up leaving them all winter – which will give you double the work next spring.

DIRTY WORK: but tackling your garden now will save you time next spring.

THREE WAYS TO ...

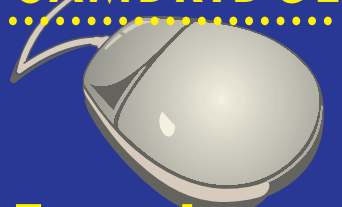

Succeed with bulbs

1. Stand pots of newly-planted bulbs on feet to allow better drainage and to prevent moisture seeping up from the ground, which will rot them.
2. Your choice will depend on where you live. Good options for cold gardens include snowdrop, crocus and narcissus, while sunny situations are better for tulip, allium, hyacinth, crocosmia and iris.

3. In large beds and borders, repeat groups of the same variety through the planting, to amplify the effect. Avoid planting in straight lines, which usually only works in large-scale, formal schemes.

Citroen's DS4 adds touch of futurism to past

CITROEN'S CLASSIC: The new DS4.

CITROEN has always striven to stretch car design boundaries, and that long, proud tradition continues with the French firm's latest model, the DS4.

Following on from the DS3, it is the second model in the DS line-up, with the range name revived in tribute to the original, highly futuristic, DS of 1955.

The French firm has imbued the five-door DS4 with coupe-like lines to deliver dynamic styling within a compact footprint – the car is 4.27 metres long by 1.81 metres wide – that also packs in much versatility.

Citroen will show the car off at the Paris Motor Show on September 30, when it is also expected to reveal prices. The full DS4 range will arrive in Britain early in 2011.

It will meet its main rivals, the Nissan Qashqai and the revised Ford Focus, head-on. The Blue Oval wants its best-selling Focus family car here in time for next year's new spring 11-plate.

To give the DS4 a more competitive edge over the opposition, Citroen says it will deliver an exceptional driving experience and outstanding road handling, with premium materials used throughout the cabin. Families will also appreciate the generous 370-litre boot and the DS4's clutch of clever storage solutions.

Up front, the Citroen's cabin is done in cockpit style and is very driver-focused – all dominated by the large panoramic windscreen that extends backwards into the roofline. With the DS4 having a slightly higher stance than most rivals, driver visibility is good, with the firm's designers wanting the person in control "to feel like they have the road at the tips of their fingers".

Owners can personalise the interior, too, with the DS4 having a choice of five leather combinations, including two-tone options. Range-topping models also get high quality leather on the dashboard and door panels, complete with a bracelet seating design that evokes the links of a watch strap.

Added premium touches include chrome detailing on the air vent surrounds, the instrument cluster, gear lever, and the central console.

The car's back doors have flush handles, and there's three full-sized rear seats.

All engine choices are designed to deliver improved fuel economy and lower CO2 emissions. Citroen has also come up with new e-diesel drivetrains that boost economy with the use of an improved alternator, an electronic gear-box, and a stop-start system that can restart the engine within 0.4 of a second.

Citroen says 1.6-litre engines will be among both petrol and diesel offerings, with that 1.6 unleaded version developed jointly with BMW.

Bells and whistles fitted to the DS4 will include an assistance system that can make emergency calls for aid, a blind-spot monitoring system with ultrasound sensors and front fog lamps with cornering lights that provide an extra beam to increase visibility when turning.

The production process is said to be "ecologically focused", and around 15 per cent of the 200kg of plastic used is derived from green, or recycled, sources.

Radical new look for latest Swift

A RADICALLY different Suzuki Swift is now on sale.

Developments in styling, impact safety, driving performance and handling as well as improved fuel consumption and significantly lower emissions make up the latest compact supermini on the block.

Three clearly defined specification grades have been devised; SZ2, SZ3 and SZ4. A new Euro 5 compliant 1.2-litre petrol engine incorporating Dual VVT (Variable intake and exhaust Valve Timing) is used that produces 93bhp at 6,000rpm, slightly more than the outgoing 1.3-litre unit. Torque is also boosted to 118nm at 4,800rpm. New Swift is even more economical with fuel consumption on the combined cycle now 56.5mpg for the manual transmission model, an improvement of 7.8mpg over the previous 1.3-litre unit. Emissions are lower too; the new 1.2-litre engine produces just 116g/km on the combined cycle – a 17 per cent improvement. The new Swift is available in nine colours.

NEW GENERATION: The new five-door Suzuki Swift SZ4.

Prices start at £9,995 for the three-door SZ2 and peak at £13,245 for the SZ4 five-door (A/T).

Mondeo Sport on sale now from £18,795

SPECIAL EDITION: The Ford Mondeo Sport.

Ford's new Mondeo Sport special edition goes on sale next month, combining more than £2,000 of extra options and elegant style including a satnav covering Europe, auto headlamps, rain-sensing wipers, self-dimming rear view mirror, 17-inch alloys plus front/rear parking sensors.

The Ford Mondeo Sport is available now at £18,795 for the 2.0-litre petrol version and £19,495 for the 1.8-litre diesel – or from just £300 over the Zetec series which the new Sport is based on.

SAM Rodman guided Newmarket to the top level of the CCA Cricket Stick CCA Junior League – despite suffering a nasty facial injury the previous week. Newmarket travelled to Division 2A leaders St Ives II knowing victory would see them leapfrog their promotion rivals and claim the title. And runs and wickets from Rodman, who needed 12 stitches in his face after suffering a bad injury, helped them to victory. Newmarket won the toss and elected to bat. However, St Ives' attack kept things tight to keep their visitors to 34 for 2 off 16 overs. However, Asgar Ozhakkal (30) and Rodman (48) turned things around, and with good support from Mark Muir, Liam Cocks and Gareth Godfrey, helped the side to 174 for 7. St Ives also started slowly but gathered impetus when Edwards started to make his presence felt. Once he fell for a half-century though, they started to capitulate and Rodman, who finished with 4 for 17 off seven overs, skipper Ollie Rix (three wickets) and Asgar Ozhakkal (two) skittled them for 118 in 30.2 overs.

Victory meant promotion to Division One was achieved in their first season at the new ground at The Severals.

GIBBS DENLEY EAST ANGLIAN PREMIER LEAGUE

BURWELL were put to the sword by youth and experience when they crashed to Saffron Walden. Championship-chasing Walden called in former England international Jason Gallian to further bolster a side already brimming with know-how and they piled up 250 for 7 on a difficult batting track at Mingay Park, Gallian scoring 34 in support of Giles Ecclestone, the

Super Sam seals title

GAVIN HARDING: Led the Fordham resistance against champions

Minor Counties veteran who made 52.

Joe Barrs, who is not long out of Walden's Academy, made an unbeaten 34 against an attack in which Adam Huckle (3 for 52) and skipper Mark Bissett (3 for 69) were the most successful. Barrs then tore through the Burwell batting, finishing with 5 for 12 from 6.1 overs. And with Nick Batcheler weighing in with 3 for 36, Burwell limped to 109 with Huckle mustering the best score of 18.

Unfortunately for Walden,

Cambridge Granta beat Norwich to clinch the title, which means the Essex side will be playing for second place when the top two meet in the final game on Saturday.

MARSHALL HATCHICK TWO COUNTIES CHAMPIONSHIP

DAREN Hayward will be a Mildenhall II supporter on Saturday after Worlington saw their promotion hopes take a battering in their last Division Three game of the season. The captain saw his side limit title-rivals and new leaders Witham to 175 for 8 and then get dismissed for 111 as they lost for the second week running. Hayward's men have slipped to third in the table and have completed all their fixtures, meaning they can only watch when Witham and second-placed Lakenheath play their final games at the weekend.

"We've only got ourselves to blame and we've taken it on the chin," said Hayward. "It's now in the lap of the gods."

"Lakenheath have to play and beat Mildenhall II on Saturday and I think Mildenhall will give them a good game, if Lakenheath don't get it called off. We've got to take it as it comes and it's in Lakenheath's hands now."

Captain Shane Leech struck 88 and helped Lakenheath recover from 35 for 4 to post 174 all out in their slender six-run win at Bury St Edmunds II. Their opponents were looking strong at 90 for 2, but teenager Dale Wilderspin and Jim Milner bagged two wickets each to help get them out for 168.

"The ball's in our court now," said Lakenheath's Adam Horrex. "If the game goes ahead, we just have to win to make sure of going up."

In Division One, brothers Tim Catley and Matthew Catley put on 152 for the fourth wicket as Exning secured a six-run success at Ipswich & East Suffolk.

The former made 85 and the latter hit 78 to add to the efforts of opening pair David Atkinson (38) and Liam Bryant (33) as the visitors put 285 for 6 on the board.

And Jamie Grove captured 4 for 67 and Daniel Baigent took 3 for 60 to ensure the hosts fell short on 279. Mildenhall were without several key players for their trip to form team Wivenhoe and were made to suffer.

Mildenhall were reduced to 55 for 6 but thanks to an unbeaten 54 from debut-making Joe Absolon they recovered to 178 for 9.

Wivenhoe lost just four wickets racking up the victory.

TUCKER GARDNER CAMBS AND HUNTS PREMIER LEAGUE

FORDHAM battled to a draw against Division One champions Camden.

With Matt Thomas making an unbeaten 104 Camden declared on 250 for 5.

However, Gavin Harding (52), Matthew Foulds (36) and Graham Arnold (35 not out) helped Fordham reach the close on 193 for 8.

Coogan tops Joggers' bid

VINCE Coogan led in the Newmarket Joggers when they staged the final leg of the 5K League.

The home club sent 36 to post in a 140-runner field at the Rowley Mile, where they competed against rivals from Cambridge, Haverhill and Saffron Walden. The consistent Coogan was first Jogger home in 17min 17sec followed by Robin Clifford (17.34) and Jan Gazdik (17.59).

First female Jogger across the line was Claudine Butler (21.14) followed by Wendy Jones (21.28) and Julie Sheldrick (22.20). The Joggers' awards for the 5k season went to Nick Conway and Sheldrick, both clocking PB's in consistent campaigns.

Full results: Men – Vince Coogan 17min17sec, Robin Clifford 17.34, Jan Gazdik 17.59, Martin Gear 18.29, Nick Conway 18.44, Derek McGaffin 19.33, Brian Munns 19.34, Jim Withers 20.41, Ross Arnold 20.45, Lee Dickinson 21.04, David Chease 21.08, Zaki Alghumham 21.14, Stephen Symonds 21.39, Jim Beeton 21.54, Alan Goodenough 22.17, Adrian Whittle 22.20, Neil Williamson 22.39, Pete Circuit 24.16, Dave Peck 27.24. Women – Claudine Butler 21.14, Wendy Jones 21.28, Julie Sheldrick 22.20, Nat Allen 22.46, Megan Corbett 23.22, Olive Millington 23.36, Karen Harnad 23.55, Miranda Paul 24.12, Kate Tucker 24.12, Vicky Snell 24.23, Philippa O'Brien 24.49, Chloe Beeton 25.02 (junior u16), Sam Crockett 26.15, Chrissie Moore 26.40, Maxine Copland 30.22, Anne Simpson 31.44, Sarah Keller 31.44.

» Neil Williamson and Susannah Rush ventured down to the Bristol Half-Marathon, recording 1hr 40min and 1:43 respectively. Elsewhere last weekend, Dave Price clocked a personal best of 53min14sec at the Bedford 10k, and father and daughter Greg and Charlie Davis tackled the Framlingham races. Greg ran the 10k, completing the three-lap hilly course in 38.19 to finish third W40, while Charlie was the first girl under-10 home in 7.46.

FLASHPOINT: Rob Huff taps Augusto Farfus in the incident which led to him being disqualified.

Huff suffers black day in title race

ROB Huff had a day to forget as his hopes of closing the gap on the leader of the World Touring Car Championships suffered a blow in Oschersleben, Germany.

The Red Lodge-based driver had fond memories of the track after gaining his first pole position there in 2008, but his trip in 2010 will be remembered for a disqualification in the first race.

Huff's Chevrolet tapped Augusto Farfus at the first corner in an eventual rolling start, allowing Huff and teammate Alain Menu through.

He held the lead, although after the first-corner contact he was awarded a drive-through penalty. But that turned into a black flag as he did not go into the pits within three laps.

With Huff hitting the pits, Menu took over the lead and he went on to win the race from Farfus with fellow Chevrolet driver Yvan Muller third.

"Luck went my way with Huff getting a black flag," said Menu. "It was a bit unfortunate for him as there is always a domino effect going into turn one here."

In the second race, Huff set about putting the earlier events behind him as he made a good start to go up the order from 17th to 14th on lap one. Norbert Michelisz, Huff and Gabriele Tarquini were soon battling for eighth place, and when Huff tapped the back of Michelisz, he nudged his way through before going on to finish seventh.

Andy Priaulx won the race from Farfus, with Muller third. Muller tops the standings with 229 points, with Huff 56 points behind on 173 in fourth place.

Pressing's just a Top performer

MICHAEL Jarvis' Pressing won the International Topkapi Trophy at Veliefendi in Turkey for a third successive year yesterday.

In a repeat of last year's race, Andrew Balding's Dream Eater emerged from the pack to chase him home.

Luca Cumani's Mabait ran a solid race to finish third but Godolphin's Invisible Man and Frozen Power were never in contention.

Jarvis, watching from his Newmarket base, said: "That was great – he's a fantastic horse, he really is."

"He's not happy unless he is away for three or four days! Maybe he was idling in front a touch, but he has that one big kick and it is always quite worrying whether Neil (Callan) goes too early or leaves it too late.

"He's just got to get it right but it is a wonderful burst which helps him win his races. There's nothing between the two horses (Pressing and Dream Eater). They were separated by a nose last year and there's no more than half a length between them again."

"There was nothing between them at Salisbury last time out either, they are on a par I think."

Rewilding: Red hot in St Leger market.

RED-HOT favourite Rewilding features among the 12 remaining entries for the Ladbroke's St Leger at Doncaster on Saturday. The Godolphin-owned colt was an impressive winner of the Great Voltigeur at York last month, a performance that propelled him to the head of the betting for the world's oldest Classic.

Ed Dunlop's dual Oaks winner Snow Fairy could attempt to become the first filly to win the Leger since User Friendly in 1992, although the forecast rain could give connections a headache.

Doncaster clerk of the course David Williams admits the forecast deluge will have a significant effect on the going.

The ground was described as good to firm on Monday, but Williams said they could have almost 40mm of rain before the race.

He said: "It's been dry for much of the year and we've pretty much had a drought here, so it would be nice to see some rain – just not that amount."

Aidan O'Brien has left in Bright Horizon, Flying Cross, Joshua Tree and Midas Touch while Arctic

Rewilding ready for St Leger mudbath

Cosmos, Dandino, Corsica, Ted Spread, Theology and Total Command complete the possibles.

» The quest for Spacious to win a Group One goes on after she suffered a narrow defeat in the Matron Stakes at Leopardstown on Saturday.

The five-year-old did almost everything right at the Dublin track but had no answer to the finishing kick of Lillie Langtry, who got up to score by a neck.

It was the fifth time Spacious has been placed at the highest level and Chris Richardson, managing director for owners Cheveley Park Stud, said: "She ran a blinder. It's a bit frustrating to be playing bridesmaid again – I think that was the third time she's been second in a Group One – but we're delighted with her."

"The plan is for her to go back to Newmarket for the Sun Chariot. We'll probably find the weather is against us by then, but we'll see."

» Dar Re Mi – the winner of six of her 17 starts with successes in Ireland, England France and Dubai – earning £2.69m in prize money – has been retired to owner Lord Lloyd-Webber's Watership Down Stud. Her finest hour was probably winning the Dubai Sheema Classic, but she also landed the Audi Pretty Polly Stakes and the Darley Yorkshire Oaks and trainer John Gosden said: "She has been a magnificent filly to train and has a great attitude to racing."

» William Haggas believes it was worth the connections of Approve splashing out £10,000 to supplement the juvenile into Saturday's Neptune Investment Management Champagne Stakes at Doncaster with a view to the future.

Jockeys grind it out

A 'frank chat' as 'Hall crash

Huntingdon Tn 2
Mildenhall Tn 1 (aet)
FA Vase, first qualifying round

DAVE Beeney's extra-time penalty save helped 10-man Huntingdon stun Mildenhall and advance to the next round.

The home team's goalkeeper denied David Cooper – who had earlier equalised for the visitors from the spot following a handball – after Michael Harvey had been felled in the 115th minute.

Stuart Eason gave Huntingdon an early lead, but they were pegged back by Cooper's successful spot-kick and they had Shaun Coulson sent off for two bookable offences just before the break. But the hosts fought back and substitute Jordan Brockett restored their lead with 10 minutes of extra time left, before Beeney's heroics.

"It's probably the worst side we've played and the worst we've played since I've been here," said Mildenhall manager Christian Appleford.

"We had more than enough chances to be 4-0 up at half time, but we were trying to rush things in the second half and playing football in the wrong parts of the pitch."

"It was always on the cards that they were going to catch us with a sucker punch."

"We had a frank chat in the dressing room after the game."

Mildenhall, who were due to visit CRC last night, return to league action on Saturday when they face Kirkley & Pakefield at home.

They then travel to Dereham on Tuesday.

Missed: Mildenhall's Dominic Mould gets past Huntingdon's Josh Crick. SP067550

Newmarket Tn 3
Diss Tn 0
FA Vase first qualifying round

DAVID Grainger put the seal on Newmarket's victory over 10-man Diss, but they were below par for much of the afternoon.

A largely-forgettable affair came to life when the Jockeys were awarded a 65th-minute penalty and a visiting player received two yellow cards for a double dose of dissent.

Jon Olive tucked the spot-kick away and Steve Bell increased the lead with an accurate shot across the goalkeeper, before David Grainger rounded things off.

"It was such a poor game of football, but we got the result and another clean sheet," said joint-manager Kevin Grainger.

"There were virtually no chances until we got the penalty. Everyone kept giving the ball away and it was just a horrible game."

"But we played some quite good stuff once we got the goal. Once we were ahead we got on top and it was a good win."

Newmarket will be at home to Wisbech in the next round, but before then are at home to Great Yarmouth in the Ridgeons League, Premier Division on Saturday.

Newmarket 0
Hedleigh 4
Ridgeons League Premier Division

NEWMARKET were brought crashing back to earth at the Town Ground on Tuesday.

They were crushed by Hedleigh, whose goals came from Deacon (2), Hyde and Payne.

It was the away side's second win of the season and moves them up to mid-table while Newmarket drop to 16th.
